"I am their Father, says God. Our Father Who Art in Heaven."

From "GOD SPEAKS"
by Charles Peguy

Yes, I am your father, in every sense that word implies. Your earthly father feeds you, clothes you, and when you break a window, playing, he pays for it.

I am the Creator of the food your father buys for you, the Creator of the raw materials that eventually are the clothes you wear. And when you played too recklessly in the Garden of Eden, when you broke the window and let sin in, I paid for that, and dearly. The price was the life of My only Son.

So you can see very well how much I love you. Would your father sacrifice his only son so that you could be happy? I did. I am your Father Who is in Heaven—watching over you.

*" . . . All the submission, all the dejection in the world
Are not equal in value to the soaring up point,
The beautiful straight soaring up of one single invocation
From a love that is free."*

From "GOD SPEAKS"
by Charles Peguy

Kneel up straight, child. And if you can't quite make it, take My big hand. I'll pull you up.

You talk of being "grown up" enough to look the world in the face at college, in an office, in a new home or maybe in a convent. I really have to laugh at that, I Who am older than Time itself and am still baffled by the antics of that round globe that I created.

In your busy new life think of Me once in a while. It's little enough to ask. And when you do think to pray to Me, I beg just one small favor. If you love me, kneel up straight, in body and in soul, and be a Woman.

Loretto Academy
Austin Terrace
El Paso, Texas

To the Graduating Class of 1955:

I wish to congratulate you on the occasion of your Graduation and to extend to you my blessing and best wishes.

At Graduation you face the future with confidence and assurance for the precious years spent at Loretto Academy have given you a training and a discipline well calculated to form a sterling, realistic and courageous character capable of meeting and solving the problems of today's youth. This training and discipline, the wisdom of the Church's ageless experience in fostering intellectual and moral growth, is the most valuable result of your education and allows you to stand before the world ready and apt for life. These are benefits which few others have been able to enjoy. Hence, there should never be cause for wonder when the Church and the State, our parents and the world in general have such great expectations for graduates of Catholic Schools.

Assured that the Graduates of 1955 will also be the proud boast of Loretto Academy for their piety, loyalty and integrity and with every blessing, I am

Sincerely yours in Christ,

"Nothing is so beautiful as a child going to sleep while he is saying his prayers, says God . . . And sticks the words of Our Father among the words of Hail, Mary, all in a jumble . . .

From "GOD SPEAKS"
by Charles Peguy

Perhaps that is why I love little children so much —they're not afraid of Me. They're so unafraid, they jumble up their prayers with complete abandon.

But not you. You read them like an exercise at school, very carefully and without expression, so as not to arouse my wrath. Your prayers as compared to a little child's are as a stalk of gladiolas compared to a simple pansy.

Gladiolas make a great fuss of prissiness and show, but a pansy can be enjoyed over and over, for all its smallness.

I often call to you, My child, but you rarely hear me. Once in a while, stop and tell me what you are doing. I'll be glad to hear from you, and maybe I can help you out sometime.

*"Poor people . . .
They look after their business very well during the day.
But they haven't enough confidence in me to let me look after it during the night . . .
I govern creation. . .*

From GOD SPEAKS
by Charles Peguy

You're tired, my child, I can tell. I have worked hard too, and so I know the signs. Is the Demerit List, plans for retreat, prom decorations, or the sports day schedule worth that pain that comes like a thick, hot needle to jab at the back of your neck? Are the red-rimmed eyes, the concentrated pucker on your brow worth the effort of rolling your hair, doing that extra credit assignment? Not that I want you to shirk, to fail in what is expected of you. No, but, My daughter, slow up a bit. Don't work so hard. I, Myself, rested on the seventh day.

Tonight, instead of sitting and gnawing your pencil with worry, go to sleep. Maybe during the night, I, Who have solved problems for many years, for many people, may pass your way.

"When you love someone, you love him as he is. I alone am perfect."

From "GOD SPEAKS"
by Charles Peguy

Don't judge your fellow men too harshly. If they don't agree with your own high estimation of yourself, don't condemn them as ignorant or jealous.

Suppose you aren't chosen lead for the operetta. Show your good will, nevertheless, and put forth your best efforts to work with the group.

When Sports Day rolls around, go play your baseball game or run your race with love in your heart for your opponents. You are supposed to love them, you know. But there you go, crying because the decision went against you and spearing the poor winning team with black looks for the rest of the day.

Then comes the prom. Your dress is just gorgeous! Then, as you walk in, suddenly, before your eyes, appears the very same dress -on another girl. Don't hate her for it. She didn't duplicate your dress on purpose. And if she looks better in it than you, acknowledge the fact. I made you both, and I like you the way you are. Be satisfied. I am.

Recognize the good in others, for in doing so you grow spiritually and can humbly recognize your own good, which glorifies Me, your Father in Heaven.
